At the turn of the 20th Century, Germany and Britain were at engineering loggerheads. The German products were just far superior to the ageing quality of machined goods, synonymous with the steam industrial revolution of Britain. This trade stand off was a planned move by the families behind the global banking cartel, administered in the hands of the House of Rothschild (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/history/in-profile-the-aldobrandini-lucifer-and-its-servants/), in which they could back the second largest enemy to the Imperial agenda for global revolution, Germany, to take on the biggest enemy to the covetousness of Rome, Britain, and set about destroying the sovereignty (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/british-law/government-corporation-death-raised-life/) of both nations through conflict.

A Venetian strategy for sure, in setting your two biggest opposition forces against each other, thus both requiring something you have in abundance, credit (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/history/profile-vatican-ii-world-religion/)… and since the takeover of the Monarchy (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/british-law/in-profile-why-british-freemasonry-changed-allowing-the-mafia-monarchy-to-reign-over-us/), the Bank of England and from 1815, the British stock market, by the House of Rothschild, they moved to shift British industry to arming Japan (https://www.rothschildarchive.org/materials/ar2006japan.pdf) including a huge Navy built in the shipyards of the North East, all the while undermining British industry and handing the technologies to Germany. Commerce (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/british-law/trade-commerce/) would be the point of conflict.

As early as 1912, the ramblings of global revolution can be seen in the psyche of Aristocratic Germany that they would thrust into the political Germany before WWI.

The writing of Friedrich von Bernhardi (https://www.eap-iea.org/index.php/eap/article/view/97), specifically his work titled Germany and the next war, published in 1912, he sought to prove the inevitability of "preemptive war" and territorial annexations in order to provide for the economic and political interests of Germany as a global force. Bernhardi legitimised his opinion by calling on social-Darwinist arguments as well as the tradition of German idealist philosophy, and claiming that war is the only means by which it is possible to sustain German culture as the highest form of "German spirit" and, its most valuable contribution to humanity.

As the First World War took hold, dragging into the madness the nations of Europe, one year in and the rhetoric would shift from sustaining the German spirit, to global revolution to secure global control.

Not happy with the results of the First slaughter, the global elite let loose an idea for the total destruction of a race, not the race that came to the forefront of your mind, the Jews, but a race judged and sentenced to destruction called the Germans, this agenda they presented in 1941 with a book titled : ‘Germany Must Perish‘ by Theodore Kaufman.

The following was published in 1915 by Nahum Goldmann[1] :

“The historical mission of our world revolution is to rearrange a new culture of humanity to replace the previous social system. This conversion and reorganisation of global society requires two essential steps, firstly the destruction of the old established order, secondly, the design and imposition of the new order, the first stage requires elimination of all frontier borders, nationhood and culture, public policy ethical barriers and social definitions. Only then, the destroyed old system elements can be replaced by the imposed system elements of our new order.”

“The first task of our world revolution is destruction. All social strata and social formations created by traditional society must be annihilated. Individual men and women must be uprooted from their ancestral environment, torn out of their native milieus, no tradition of any type shall be permitted to remain as sacrosanct. Traditional social norms must also be viewed only as a disease to be eradicated. The ruling dictum of the new order is, nothing is good so everything must be criticised and abolished. Everything that was must be gone.”

“The forces preserving traditional society are “free market capitalism” in the social economic realm, and “democracy” in the mental political realm. The capitalist free market does not fight against the old economic order, nor does democracy lead a fierce hot battle against the forces of reaction which oppose the new order, therefore our transformative work will be imposed through the unifying principle of the militaristic spirit, the negative task of destroying the old established order will be completely solved and finished only when all the human masses are all forcibly collectivised as uniformed soldiers under imposed mass-conformity of new order culturing.” [Communism, the left]

“After destruction of the old order, construction of the new order is a larger and more difficult task.”

“We will have torn out the old limbs from their ancient roots in deep layers, social norms will be lying disorganised and anarchic so they must be blocked against new cultural forms and social categories naturally re-emerging. The general masses will have been first persuaded to join as equals in the first task of destroying their own traditional society and economic culture, but then the new order must be forcibly established through people again being divided and differentiated only in accordance with the new pyramidal hierarchical system of our imposed global monolithic new world order.”

“Capitalism must be condemned as a fundamental misfortune caused by the wealth of capitalist power exploiting the false separation between the high rulers and the oppressed exploited masses. The masses must be induce to repudiate the concept of personal wealth and personal rights, this second task will also be solved only by virtue of the great guiding principle of the subordinating militaristic spirit in which superior ranks impose order on inferiors, new world order: “which will bring the true aristocratic principle of “might is right” in the those who can rule – shall rule”.

Note

[1] Nahum Goldmann (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nahum_Goldmann) was a leading Zionist (https://thebridgelifeinthemix.info/history/protestants-zionist-puppets-building-fake-israel/) and the founder and longtime president of the World Jewish Congress. Nahum Goldmann was born in Vishnevo, Russian Empire, a shtetl in the Pale of Settlement, the son of a teaching and writing Litvak family, whose father was an ardent Zionist. At the age of six, he moved with his parents to Frankfurt, Germany, where his father entertained leading Zionists and intellectuals, and where he attended the Musterschule. In 1911, while still in high school, he and his father attended the Tenth Zionist Congress. Goldmann went on to study law, history, and philosophy in Marburg, Heidelberg, and Berlin. He graduated in law and philosophy.
